leo™ IS THE OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION PARTNER FOR GLOBAL UNITED FC MATCH

With 20 days to go before the world descends on southern Africa, leo™ is not missing out on the opportunity to become involved with the biggest international soccer event to be held on Namibian soil. On 26 May 2010, 30 international soccer stars will be in Windhoek to play one exhibition match, against African Stars and an African legends team. Our very own Lollo, Frank Fredericks, Gazza to name a few will be taking on this international side.

leo™ is proud to be involved with this prestigious event and will supply communication services to our international guests, as well as wi-fi services at the Independence Stadium for the local and international media.

Speaking at the handing over of an autographed soccer ball, Stanley Similo, leo's Chief Human Resource and Regulatory Officer said: "In Namibia we are convinced that the national language is soccer and leo™ already being involved with this national game is proud to be part of the sponsors line-up for Wednesday's game. leo™ understands and accepts the devastating results of global warming and the lack of information that is available to especially our scholars. Through the Global United FC match, money will be channelled back into Namibia for the printing of school books, so that our learners can, at a young age, understand the importance and impact of global warming and how they can become part of the solution.”

Through leo’s “Education for All” campaign the company has shown their commitment and support to the education of Namibian learners. Further leo™ sponsors the leo/NFA cup which sees the finals being played on 29 May 2010 in Windhoek.

Similo concluded: “We wish our African Stars team the very best and know that they will do Namibia proud. There are still VIP tickets available and we urge all other businesses and corporate to buy them and support this not-to-be-missed event. We look forward to seeing you next Wednesday evening.”
